

Carly Church

Director

Appointed: June 9, 2021; current term expires May 1, 2024
Committee Membership: Human Resources

Carly is a mechanical engineer with extensive experience in mine engineering, construction management and business analysis. After starting her career in residential construction, she worked as a mechanical designer before moving into the mining industry. In her 10 years working within the mining sector, Carly has managed the engineering and overseen the construction, development, and expansion of mines, throughout Canada and globally. She is currently a project manager with JDS Energy & Mining, a BC based company who take mining and construction projects from the early conceptual vision, right through every stage of planning and development, up to successful operations.

In addition to her professional experience, Carly has served as a committee member for the Association of Mineral Exploration BC, and the Centre for Training Excellence in Mining. As a senior professional in the global mining industry Carly is passionate about widening inclusion and promoting women's career opportunities in the field. As a speaker, panelist and mentor Carly continues to contribute to change within her industry.
